

“The original export was preserved intact and hashed.

A copy was extracted for mechanical transformation only, converting structured JSON into timestamped thread documents without semantic alteration.

The extracted files were marked read-only, re-bundled alongside the original data, and sealed with a new SHA-256 hash.

Multiple redundant copies were maintained across offline and online storage to preserve continuity and integrity.”